

Allgemeine Portale:

- Xing
- Facebook
- Google Plus
- LinkedIn

Founding Portale:

- CodeArmy
- CoFoundersLab
- Founder2be
- FounderDating
- Founderio
- LeanStartupMachine
- LetsLunch
- Meetup
- StartupWeekend
- YouNoodle
- Startup Sucht
- Founders Nation

CodeAr.my:

- No blackboard style website with easy access to other users
- Provides a lot more help, kinda overwhelming

CoFoundersLab:

- More complicated to create an account
- Connects people based on their skills
- Doesn't give any information about their projects/ideas
- Account required

Founder2be:

- Looks cheap
- No way to filter ideas by location
- Cofounders can only be filtered by country
- Account required

FounderDating:

- Joined cofounderslab

Founderio:

- Provide partnerships with industry
- Very similar to our idea, but website is a bit clumsy

LeanStartupMachine:

- Complete different; it's a workshop, no webportal

LetsLunch:

- Confusing approach, no blackboard, but communities you can join and you can invite people for lunch?
- No way of filtering anything

Meetup:

- Provides meetings for communities
- No blackboard for ideas
- Good filtering
- Not specialized on startups

StartupWeekend:

- Similar to meetup
- Event based, no blackboard
- Not very popular (in Germany)

YouNoodle:

- Impressive partners
- Competition based
- No clue how this works

Startup Sucht:

- Very similar to our idea
- Terrible filtering
- Doesn't seem to be very popular
- Contact per mail/linked website
- Posts cost money: 40-100€ per listing

FoundersNation:

- Good website ideas
- buggy